Wednesday, February 17, 2009 Ok so I've got over my awe at my awesome husband (hence, the new header), but he is really REALLY good at sleeping. I don't know how he does it! Anyways, he needs the "luxury" of a weekday naptime, so I'll be blogging a bit more from now on during the weekdays. I actually have one post written already, but I just found out that our beloved Littles "Screw the job and come home!" that we've had for about a year is now being denied to our family! So, it looks like my naps are going to be a little briefer from now on. But I do get to catch up on my blogging! Monday, February 1, 2009 Last weekend we spent Valentine's Day at my mom's. It was actually a fun day. My husband was able to eat a little bit of everything (just enough that he got sick the next day), and we went to a little restaurant at the mall. We got some yummy sushi and I tried some of the desserts they serve. But the best part by far is a good old fashioned McDonald's... no joke. We went there on Monday morning and got breakfast for breakfast on Valentine's Day! Can you say, I've been there! My kiddos loved it and they had ice cream cake for dessert! They LOVED it. Maggie (Maggie Gyllenhaal) is a young woman recovering from a recent breakup. While driving home late one night, she stops at a bar and meets Eddie (Adam Sandler), a charismatic man who mistakes her for another woman and decides to buy her a drink. As the night goes on, they discuss their respective romantic history and share their views on life. After Maggie and Eddie go back to 2d92ce491b
