Hyperhomocysteinemia (HHcy) is an independent risk factor for thrombotic cardiovascular disease. The pathogenesis of cardiovascular disease has been recognized to be closely related to the balance of pro- and anti-apoptotic proteins. In recent studies, L-arabinose was found to protect vascular endothelial cells from apoptosis in vitro. However, whether L-arabinose can prevent endothelial cell apoptosis induced by HHcy is unclear. In this study, we investigated whether L-arabinose could protect human endothelial cells from apoptosis induced by homocysteine (Hcy). Human endothelial cells (EA.hy926) were incubated with 10-100 microM Hcy in the presence of L-arabinose (1-10mM) for 48h. Apoptosis was determined by flow cytometry and TUNEL assay. Our results show that Hcy increases apoptosis in EA.hy926 cells in a dose- and time-dependent manner, and that L-arabinose has anti-apoptotic effect on endothelial cells incubated with 10-100 microM Hcy. The effect of L-arabinose on Hcy-induced endothelial cell apoptosis was increased with concentration. Moreover, L-arabinose decreases intracellular reactive oxygen species, total glutathione, reduced glutathione, and GSH/GSSG ratio in 10 microM Hcy-treated endothelial cells. These results suggest that L-3ef4e8ef8d
