The nuclear nephrocystin-1 (NPHP1) protein interacts with the nucleolar protein nucleolin. Nephrocystin-1 (NPHP1) is a member of the nephrocystin protein family and the protein encoded by the NPHP1 gene is associated with nephronophthisis (NPHP). We investigated the interaction between NPHP1 and nucleolin, a highly phosphorylated nucleolar protein and a prominent biomarker of mitotic chromatin. We used immunoprecipitation, immunoblotting and quantitative immunofluorescence to analyze the interaction between the two proteins. We also carried out transient transfection experiments in HeLa and MDCK cells to test the effect of NPHP1 expression on nucleolin distribution and colocalization in the nucleolus. The NPHP1 interaction with nucleolin was examined by coimmunoprecipitation, coimmunolocalization and immunofluorescence colocalization experiments. We also carried out immunoprecipitation experiments to identify the phosphorylated residues in nucleolin that interact with NPHP1. NPHP1 coimmunoprecipitated with nucleolin and this interaction was confirmed using both in vitro and in vivo experimental systems. Nucleolin was localized mainly in the nucleoli and in the interphase nucleoplasm and NPHP1 was localized in the nucleoli in interphase cells. Nucleolin and NPHP1 were colocalized in the nucleoli in interphase cells. Nucleolin and NPHP1 also colocalized in the nucleoli in mitotic cells. NPHP1 coimmunoprecipitated with nucleolin and this interaction was mediated by phosphorylation. Our results showed that the interaction of NPHP1 with nucleolin could 2d92cc491b
