A: Here is the code that I believe will fix it: $str = strtr( $str, array("&","^", "nS", "n", "" )); Which are the best jobs for your ideal side project? - jhull I'm thinking of creating a job board for freelancers/companies to connect and show their products to potential clients. From the companies POV, a quick and easy job board would be great. So I would love to know which is the best job to do this from the freelancers POV. Should I focus on stuff that is easier to gain traction and get funded? or should I do something thats more of a startup idea that is more suited to the startup culture. ===== nodemaker I find that the best startups in my country get funded easily. So once you know the market and have something people need it is very easy to get the money. Also as far as job postings goes, any job is not better than another, there are a lot of job posting services. You may want to target freelancers to post their job. They dont have to have the money to pay you and there is a lot of them. ba244e880a
