Category: Internet & SecurityQ: How to detect whether an app is running on iPhone or iPad in iOS 1 have an app that should react differently when the user is using an iPhone versus an iPad. I thought of creating two different versions of the app and in the didFinishLaunchingWithOptions I would detect if it's running on iPhone or iPad and, therefore, choose the correct app to launch. I was wondering if there is a simpler way of achieving the same results? A: Check out UIDevice. It's very straightforward. if ([[UIDevice currentDevice] userInterfaceIdiom] == UIUserInterfaceIdiomPad) { // It's an iPad } else { // It's an iPhone } There are also iPad and iPhone, but you don't need them to detect iPads or iPhones, respectively. up to the State Board of Health, this District, for a determination. KEYMACRO is a command line utility that intercepts all keyboard key presses in real time and lets you activate/deactivate them at will. It works the same as AutoHotKey and also supports a few other languages. Note: In Windows Vista/Windows 7/Windows 8, the KeyMacro command has been moved to the Classic Accessories tab, labeled "Customize Keyboard Keys". On Windows 8.1, the key macro utility has been moved into the "Accessories" section of the "Personalization" settings on the Start Screen. KeyMacro does the following things: · Intercept keyboard key presses · Send key presses to a program of your choice · Display the keyboard keys pressed · Execute commands on those keys · Automatically detect keyboard layout It also has the following features: · Ability to check/uncheck and to switch to/from the previous key pressed · Ability to search for keyboard keys within a program of your choice · Auto run your favorite shortcut with specific key press (i.e. Alt + S) · Ability to make keyboard keys send special characters (i.e. Ctrl + Alt + S) · Ability to make keyboard keys perform some special actions (i.e. Ctrl + Alt + P to print) · Ability to make keyboard keys launch an application of your choice · Ability to send a key press to a function key (F1 to F12, F7, etc.) · Ability to send the key press to a specific application (i.e. Ctrl + Alt + D to terminate the program) · Ability to send key presses to a specific computer (i.e. Ctrl + Alt + L to lock the computer) · Ability to force applications to be in "full screen" mode · Ability to put an icon in the start menu for easy access · Ability to put your own icon in the start menu for easy access Note: On some keyboards, you may not see the KeyMacro menu item. In this case, you can just enable/disable it. How to Activate/Deactivate: · On Windows 7/8.1, right-click on the Classic Accessories sub-menu of the Keyboard tab · On Windows Vista, go to the "Classic Accessories" sub-menu of the "Personalization" tab in the Control Panel · On Windows XP, go to the "Classic Accessories" sub-menu of the "Accessories" tab of 77a5ca646e

This software is not affiliated with Microsoft Corporation, and is for use at your own risk. Internet Explorer Tweaker Plus comes with many other tweaks and features that are only available if you are on the Developer Preview version of Windows 7. 1. IE is a neat program, but still not perfect. I use it on my old PC and I have to reboot it once or twice a day. So I decided to tweak it to suit my PC. I found the Internet Explorer Tweaker Plus. I will not need to worry about rebooting my PC anymore. All my new IE8 tweaks are working perfectly. I tried some more IE9 tweaks like adjusting the tabs on the IE title bar and configuring the page view options. 2. I also installed a FREE Download Manager, which I also never used. It is the most awesome download manager I have ever used. All the tasks are easily manageable and integrated with IE8. The Download Manager is like a clicker. You can specify the download progress of all the downloads. If you click a download link you can also download the files directly from the download manager. I have tested the download manager with Dropbox, Google Drive, Windows Live and MS Office files. 3. The shortcut icons are large, so I can use those icons as shortcuts on my desktop. 4. While IE is still not perfect I think it is definitely the best Internet Explorer out there. I hope that Microsoft will continue with improving IE. The value of Internet Explorer Tweaker Plus is its value. You are paying just for this software, and nothing else. It is so light that it does not take much of your hard drive space. Absolutely recommended. If you are looking to install IE9 tweak software that have been tested and work perfectly, then you have come to the right place. This application is simple and light. You can use it anywhere, anytime. It is totally free. It works for any version of Internet Explorer. It installs a small registry tweak that is already in place on your PC. Once you launch IE9 after you have installed this tweak, you will immediately notice the features added to IE9. Internet Explorer Tweaker Plus has some great features. It is able to handle upto 9 tabs at a time. This helps you to manage your web surfing much easier. You can also change your IE6/IE7 bookmarks to IE8 Bookmarks. IE9 has also come with a really cool feature called Mouse gestures. This allows you to use the keys on the keyboard to control your mouse. You can also hide the address bar by just pressing CTRL + h keys. Internet Explorer Tweaker Plus allows you to customize and change settings of IE8 such as browser preferences.
