Note As of this writing, the program isn't free, but expect to see a price drop as its popularity rises. * Frame-building *. One of the best things about Photoshop Elements is the ability to resize and move a frame, which is a lot of fun. You can resize the frame to make a frame of any shape that you like. You can move the frame as a whole or just part of it. Once you place your frame, Elements automatically places the image on the glass. It even adds a border for you, just in case you need it. And

Most school buses are painted white, but this bus is shaded with a beige color. (Yuan Bin/Xinhua file photo) BEIJING -- In a taste of what's to come for China's farting motorists, the government has launched a fat tax in the latest effort to curb pollution. Motorists caught with an excess of don't-pass-me-in-the-morning grease will be punished with a V-shaped pictogram in the air and a fat-tax stamp on their driving license. The move by the transportation ministry, which rolled out the slogan of "making green the way for you," comes weeks ahead of the April 5 Beijing Olympics. The start of the games has always been the auspicious time to curb dangerous vehicular smog in Beijing, which usually appears in the Chinese capital and other cities in the spring due to a combination of dry weather, stricter exhaust-emission standards and car-pooling by the millions of migrant workers in urban areas. But although cars and motorbikes still outnumber people on the roads, pollution levels have dropped since last year. Not to worry, though, said the Beijing Tourism Administration, which cited passenger vehicles and city buses as major contributors to the toxic haze. "Beijing can say it has solved its air pollution problem for the Olympic Games. But there's another big problem and it's starting to show," said Richard Zaruba, of the Beijing-based Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs. That problem is China's excessive reliance on coal, which still provides more than 90 percent of the country's electricity. China is the world's biggest producer, consumer and exporter of coal, and has been expanding its coal-fired power generation at a dizzying pace. Although it has curbed the growth in 2010 and has pledged to cut its production in half by 2015, that pledge has proved difficult to keep as the industry's target depends on coal prices, which are in a state of flux. The Ministry of Land and Resources has warned that the pollution problem in the nation's coal-rich north could worsen in the coming decade. "A lot of people are growing angry about the issue of coal, which represents the main cause of smog in Beijing," said Lin Shihong, a pollution expert with the Beijing Environmental Monitoring Center. "People are saying, 'We can't go on like this. We're ready to do

$x_1, x_2, x_3, x_4 \mapsto (f(x_1), f(x_2), f(x_3), f(x_4))$ is an internal mapping and \tilde{f} is an external mapping. Therefore, by Theorem $\text{thm:extn_subclass_not_f}(W) \subset \text{f}(Bd_W)$ and Lemma $\text{lem:extn_subclass_not_f}(W) \subset \text{f}(Bd_W)$, the domain $\{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, \tilde{f})$ is not a subalgebra of $\{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, f)$. Therefore, $\{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, \tilde{f})$ is not an extension of $\{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, f)$. Suppose that $\text{f} : \{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, f) \rightarrow \{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, f)$ is an internal mapping. Then the domain $\{\mathbf{Q}\}(\{\mathbf{P}\}, f)$ is a subalgebra of $\mathbf{Q}(\mathbf{P}, f)$. By the same arguments in the proof of Theorem $\text{extn_subclass_not_f}(W) \subset \text{f}(Bd_W)$, the domain $\mathbf{Q}(\mathbf{P}, \tilde{f})$ is not a subalgebra of $\mathbf{Q}(\mathbf{P}, f)$. Therefore, $\mathbf{Q}(\mathbf{P}, \tilde{f})$ is not an extension of $\mathbf{Q}(\mathbf{P}, f)$. Acknowledgement This research was supported by the Ministry of Education (Singapore) MOE AcRF Tier 1 Grant: RG 18/13.
