Way too big for all that legroom there. Sure, you can plug an add-on into the mike, but you do need good-quality headphones to hear anything. First, you need to make sure the battery is fully charged before you start playing. Also, do your homework before you give your e-mail away. Make sure you know who is after your address, who you are speaking to, and what you are interested in. And don't kid yourself: knowing what you're interested in won't be much help when you find out that someone's offering to pay you to take surveys. The third consideration is the frequency of responses. For a few extra dollars you can have 20 e-mails a day, which will give you a better chance of getting what you need. If your goal is to make the big money, some people are willing to pay much more. Some companies will pay you per day. But be wary of these companies. If you are uncertain about giving out your e-mail address, you can avoid these sorts of companies by joining and leaving a survey board more than once a month – but that's the hard way. So, keep your e-mail address to yourself. Take part in only two or three surveys a week. And do your homework before you give up your e-mail. If the survey promises to pay $10, your fee is probably worth the time. But don't pay anything without having read the entire description of the survey first. Find out if they are running the survey now or will they start in the next day or two. If they are conducting a survey now, have a look at the responses that have already been sent and make sure they're not too personal. It's bad enough to be criticized for your weight or your teeth or your clothes, but having to explain to your parents, your friends, your spouse, your boss and everybody you know what a "survey" is or how it works is just too much. Your reply will be published on the site for your people to read later. Plus, you should check your e-mail carefully when you receive a response. Survey requests are usually from people trying to sell you something or take advantage of your information. As most of the offers are fraudulent and in violation of the fair

Grievance (horse)
Grievance (foaled 7 April 2005) is a retired Thoroughbred racehorse and broodmare. A specialist for her four seasons racing in Japan, she was best known for her performances at Kyoto Racecourse. In 2010, she became the first horse in history to win the first three legs of the Japanese Triple Crown, a feat which led her to be named Japanese Horse of the Year. After her retirement from racing she became a successful broodmare. Background Grievance is a grey mare who was bred in Japan by Northern Farm. She was sent into training with Makuta Racing.
Racing career 2007: two-year-old season Grievance made a successful debut over 1400 metres on 5 July, when she won the Grade 3 Ohme-Kosode-Waken at the Chukyo Racecourse. Ridden by Hidetaka Nakajima, she went clear for most of the way and won by five and a half lengths, with a gap of twenty-one lengths back to the runner-up. 2008: three-year-old season On her first appearance as a three-year-old, Grievance contested a grade 1 race over 1400 metres at Hanshin Racecourse in September. She was sent off as a 10/1 outsider in an eighteen-runner field. She was among the leaders from the start but faded in the straight and finished seventh of the nine runners behind Sanfrizzlu. 2009: four-year-old season Grievance made a winning start to the 2009 season in February when she won the Grade 3 Shinko Nis d0c515b9f4
